DOWNLOAD TEOTIHUACAN CITY OF WATER CITY OF FIRE DE YOUNG teotihuacan city of water pdf Teotihuacan / t e ˈ t i ˌ h u ˌ a k ən / is an ancient Mesoamerican city located in the Valley of Mexico, north of Mexico City. It is the largest archaeological site and one of the most important in the Americas. The site covers an area of approximately 80 square kilometers (31 square miles) and contains a variety of structures, including pyramids, palaces, and residential compounds. The city was founded around 200 BCE and reached its peak around 500 CE. It was abandoned around 700 CE, and the reasons for its decline are still debated. The site was rediscovered in the 19th century and has since been excavated and partially reconstructed. It is a UNESCO World Heritage Site and a major tourist attraction in Mexico.
